Journey
What is User Acceptance Testing to you?

• The last stage of testing before shipping
• Test to ensure specific requirements are met
• Set of test run by customer (UAT or Usability???)
• Slam-dunk demo
• Prescribed automated test that mark code complete milestone
• Tests the full software solution on behalf of business users, including:
  – External Users
  – Internal Users
Slippery Words

• User
• Acceptance
• Testing

My Definition:

It's a formal testing conducted with respect to “Requirements” and “Real – World Condition /Business Process” to determine if the system meets acceptance criteria.
Do you see the difference between User Acceptance Testing and Usability Testing?
Lets take the Swing Example

User Acceptance Testing:
- Can Someone sit in the swing, pump up and swing back and forth?
- Can someone push another person sitting in the swing?
- Can a person sit in the swing and spin to get dizzy?

Usability Testing:
- Can a kid figure out how to use it?
- Can an adult user figure out how to sit in the swing?
- Is the person sitting in the swing comfortable?
GOALS

Usability Testing

User Acceptance Testing
